ARIZONA GOLD.

The Richest Mining District Known in America.

More Millionaires Secured Their Wealth From the Mineral Resources of this District Than Any in America of Equal Age.

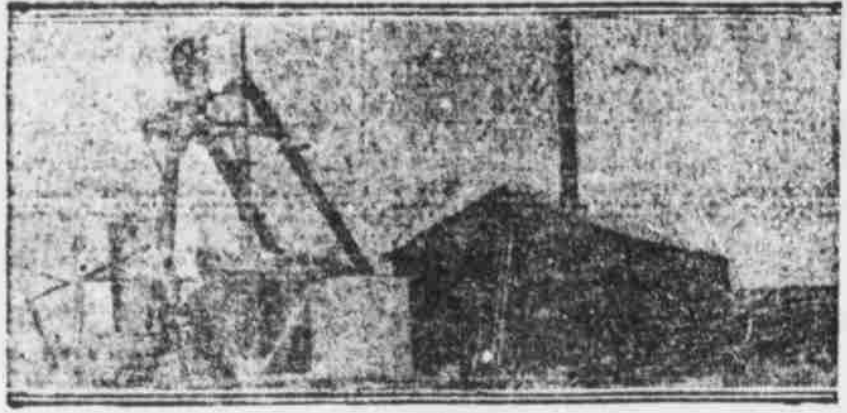

Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, one of the richest men in America today, secured a mammoth amount of his millions upon millions of gold from the mines of Arizona, which are fairly teeming with every known and valuable mineral in the world.

Hundreds of other rich men have been nearly as fortunate in Arizona mining, and thousands of men in rich mines of this country, having yielded up over $500,000,000 already during its short life, and these are but two of the many great producers in that country.

Situated in the very heart of Yavapai County, and about midway between the United Verde and the Congress, in the same mineral zone, is the property of the Yavapai Gold Mining Company, which promises to develop into another of the fabulously rich mines of this great mineral territory.

The Yavapai Mine was located moderate circumstances have profited with them in their successes. Some of the true histories of the rapid rise to wealth of poor prospectors of that rich territory within comparatively the past few months reads like a romance from the pathetic pen of a modern novelist.

Perhaps the richest section of this great territory is embraced within the limits of Yavapai County, in which the great United Verde, owned by Senator Clark and his associates, is situated, and is monthly yielding up hundreds of thousands of dollars in profits. The Great Congress Mine, owned by the late murdered President William McKinley and his cabinet, on their Western tour in 1901, is also one of the over a year ago by J. R. Hagins, one of the most reliable and intelligent prospectors of that section. He is the same party who located the great Iron King Mine, for which those who purchased of him refused $5,000,000, although they secured it for almost nothing.

Hagins was a comparatively poor man, and unable to develop his rich discoveries, and some of his friends desiring to aid him, a small company was incorporated and work started.

POOR MEN'S MINE.

Every foot of development has proved more conclusively the rich character of the ore and the mine, and but for the fact that none but comparatively poor men are interested in the property, there would not be one dollar's worth of this valuable stock placed on the market. But with the installation of the new hoisting plant and the large increase in the force of men at the mines, it has become necessary, in order to push development with all speed, and secure to the stockholders the great profits to which they are entitled, to place a small block of treasury stock on the market, only selling just enough to further develop the rich veins already exposed, and from which more than sufficient high-grade ore will be extracted to return the money one hundred fold.

A good force of men is now at work, and in a very few months thousands of tons of ore will be blocked out, giving sufficient tonnage to justify the erection of a large mill.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors, it was arranged for the sale of a limited amount of the treasury stock at a price and upon terms which will be within reach of every investor. It was determined at this meeting, however, that not less than 75 shares of the stock should be sold to any one person and that the price should be 50 cents a share, and since the recent strike another 25 cents is considered at the next meeting.

The company also agreed that any amount of stock purchased from 100 shares up, could be paid for in monthly installments of 5 cents per share per month, as follows:

Protection to Investors.

The Yavapai Gold Mining Company was formed with men at its head whose honesty and business integrity can not be questioned, and who would not identify themselves with anything that had not merit and truth to recommend it. Every care has been taken for the protection of small investors. The articles of incorporation and the by-laws of the company make the stock absolutely non-assessable. It was further decided at this meeting that these small investors should under no circumstances forfeit any money paid in for stock. That is, if one should subscribe for 100 or more shares, and after making one or more payments be unable to meet any installment, stock for every dollar that has been paid shall be issued to the purchaser.

If there are any readers of this paper who desire to stand in a small way on this wonderfully rich mine, they are advised to write to G. M. Macintosh, No. 142 East Fourth-st., Cincinnati, O., who is manager of the Cincinnati office of the Yavapai Gold Mining Company, and he will give them an opportunity to get in on this desirable property.

Many affidavits and information regarding the property will be furnished free upon application.

The ice in the upper pools of the Monongahela river and in the Allegheny has reached a thickness of more than a foot in many places and even should gorges be prevented the running ice is expected to result in damage to river craft. Both the Monongahela and Allegheny are rising slowly.

Mrs. S. B. Alderson has been ill at her home at Portsmouth, but is now much improved.

It has been requested that THE LEDGER, in a gentle and persuasive way, suggest to the ladies attending the big meeting that they remove their sombreros in order that their frailer worshippers of the opposite sex may get a glimpse of the speaker's face now and then. Now, mind you, ladies, this is only a suggestion and in no manner a demand.

Have Hens Lay Gold

It is simply wasting an opportunity to fail to feed

Chenoweth's

Poultry Powder.

Eggs are high and are going to stay high—are more likely to go higher than lower. Whether your hens lay or not depends on whether you give them egg-making materials.

Chenoweth's Poultry Powder supplies this material and also builds up the vitality of your fowls. It is profitable to feed it all the year around, but especially so right now. Will increase your poultry profits from two to three hundred per cent.

Try it. If not satisfied with results your money will be repaid.
